Draft ordinance to go to experts

The draft site plan review ordinance, completed by the Ordinance Review Subcommittee last month (see The Citizen, April 1), for a summary of the draft ordinance will be given to a professional planner for review and revision. Planning Board decided last Wednesday night.

In a meeting with the subcommittee, Planning Board members discussed the proposed site plan review ordinance. The group on the town level questioned the densities proposed for the site plan review ordinance. Subcommittee member Bob Chadraine raised the issue of the number of lots to be planned before that group began its own deliberation of the draft two weeks ago.

The proposed densities for multifamily developments are: 10 units per acre on lots serviced by town water and sewer; 4 units per acre on lots serviced by town water; 10 units per acre on lots with private wells and septic systems.

Planning Board members questioned the rationale behind such an allocation of densities. Some members of the committee felt their idea had been to preserve the rural character of the town, and allowing much higher densities in the built-up part of town outside the sewer and water service areas would keep the rural areas from excess development.

Planning Board members wondered if the opposite might not occur: if a developer could only build two units per acre in the rural area, might he or she then spread a large number of units over a large number of acres? Bob Chadraine, in his article to the Planning Board, suggested that the proposed den-

Water District turns off taps to new hook-ups

The local Water District informed the Planning Board it will not agree to any additional multifamily hookups on the district water system.

The reason for the moratorium has to do with the scheduling of condominiums within the water district, according to Water District Supervisor Don Kudin. He said the district already approved 100 percent of the proposed condominium projects in town—Carrigan House, Eden Ridge and Bethel Inn—which added nearly 25 percent to the total hook-ups.

Currently, the district serves 125 customers. When all the condominiums are sold, the number of customers will jump to 227, Mr. Kudin said.

What concerns the water district trustees is that they don't really know how much water can be drawn from the town's reservoir, Chapman Brook, on the North side of Bethel. That is the area which consists of a holding reservoir on Paradise Road in addition to the Chapman Brook reservoir, was put in in 1980, and its capacity has never been thoroughly examined.

The trustees have approached a hydrology engineer to find out what a study of the system would cost. In the meantime, they will not hook up any more multi-family developments for fear they will exceed the capacity of the reservoir.

They are particularly concerned what will happen to the water supply if the reservoir

THE AFTERMATH OF THE FLOOD had serious consequences for Tom Bonica, owner of Bear River Cabins, in Newry. The water made its way into one of the two gasoline tanks at the gas pumps and when the flood subsided, the gasoline came out through the crack in the tank. The gasoline contaminated the soil and flooded the building. The area suffered damage in the flood—the worst since 1936—is being filled out by the Dead River Company, who owns the tanks. The company has been unable to help the owner because the oil did not burn and had to be replaced with kerosene. DEP is investigating. Because of the flooding, the Dead River Company has told them the company will not replace the fuel tanks because of a company policy of not selling to small outlets. Thus Mr. Bonica is out of the gasoline business. He is also out those tourists who would drop in only because they had stopped to buy gas. Nevertheless he is keeping a sense of humor, as evidenced by the message on his sign.

Feds step in with disaster relief as recovery continues after flood

In the wake of the announcement late last week by President Reagan to declare seven counties in Maine to be disaster areas, federal disaster application centers opened in various towns hard hit by the flood. The areas include the Newry area which suffered damage in the flood—the worst since 1936—is being filled out by the Dead River Company, who owns the tanks. The company has been unable to help the owner because the oil did not burn and had to be replaced with kerosene. DEP is investigating. The annual SAD #4 Budget Meeting was held tonight (Wednesday) at the Regional High School in Telstar.

District voters will be asked to approve a gross budget of $4,461,000 for fiscal year 1987-88. An amount of $1,351,184 would have to be raised locally.

The requested gross budget of $4,461,285 represents an 18.77 percent increase over the comparable figure for the current year. The net figure of $1,381,188 is 5.77 percent more than the amount assessed last year by the municipalities for the 1987 fiscal year.

Also on the warrant for voter action is a budget for SAD #4 adult and children's education that totals $7,203,000, of which $5,320,000 is assessed locally.

The warrant also includes a request for voter action on the annual budget (NOVA) for 1987-88 in the amount of $258,497. SAD #4's share of the NOVA budget is $63,382. Approval is sought for a NOVA fund allocation based on the SAD #4 share, $1,223.

Skiway plans $25M expansion; more lifts, trails, snow, condos

Sunday River Ski Resort, in Newry, will invest $25 million in new facilities this summer, according to corporation president Les Otten.

While most of the money will go for real estate development, the corporation will spend $10 million on improving the available skiing at the mountain.

Included in the array of skiing improvements will be the first high-speed quad-chair lift in Maine or New Hampshire. The high-speed lifts, which have been showing up at ski resorts in the west, can move skiers up a mountain at speeds up to 4,000 feet per minute.

The one to be built at Sunday River is a quad-chair, designed and manufactured by Little Engineering, of Carson City, Nev., the only American company making the lift. It is to replace the existing Bear Mountain double chair.

Sunday River will also have the first fixed-grip quad-chair in Maine or New Hampshire. Running at about the same speed as the triple-chairs at the resort, the new lift will move skiers up the hill past McKenna and travel 3,850 feet to the top of Cascade Couloir. New trails will be developed from that point terminating in the Bear Mountain base lodge.

There will be four new trails in the group—one expert, two intermediate, and one novice trail.

State board OK's Sunday River's expansion plans

Protection last Wednesday voted unanimously to grant permits for Sunday River Ski Corp.'s proposed expansion plans.

Included in the work covered by the land permit are 192 condominium units (Brookside Condominiums), an aerated lagoon, a new storage barn and horse stalls, three new winter storage ponds, a new chalet, 24 new trails, five new chalets, a new mountain-top restaurant, a pump-house, an addition to the garage, and a bridge across the river.

Some of the approved projects will be undertaken this summer while others do not yet have a timetable, according to corporation president Les Otten.

Also approved unanimously by the board is a permit for discharge of treated sewage into the Dresseroggin River. The permit was granted before the skiway can undertake construction of its proposed sewer plant.

The Eden Ridge developers want to expand project.

The developers of the Eden Ridge subdivision, in Bethel, appeared at last Wednesday's Planning Board meeting to ask for permission to construct an addition to the originally planned 50-unit condominium unit. Eden Ridge developer Barry Saxe said and his partner, Avery Angerer, will like to construct an addition to the original 50-unit condominium unit.

Garbage in - money out

Archaeologists love digging around in resurrected trash piles of primitive peoples. Like modern civilizations, primitive tribes also had to face the problem of solid waste disposal. There usually was a tribal spot (the precursor of the modern dump) where people would take their broken dishes or discarded home furnishings. Archaeologists refer to these ancient scrap heaps as "kitchen middens," which is just a fancy term for "dump."

There is a great difference between primitive society, however, and late-20th century North American society. Primitive groups, with little surplus, had little to dispose of. Modern Western society, suffering from formerly undreamed of affluence, has become the throwaway society.

But a just-released report says that term may be misleading. "What we're finding is that there is no real 'away' for a throwaway society," according to Cynthia Pollock, author of the report by the Washington-based Worldwatch Institute. The report points to a "garbage glut" that is being compounded by growing populations, rising incomes, and changing consumption patterns.

Local towns are acutely aware of this, as local taxpayers see the amounts they pay for solid waste disposal increasing dramatically year by year. As the amount of trash increases and the number of places to bury it decreases, the cost of disposal inevitably soars.

While local communities now face costs of between $10 and $50 per ton, depending on the method of disposal, municipal areas are even harder hit. Philadelphia, for example, now pays $90 per ton to dispose of its trash to landfills in Ohio and Virginia, and city officials are negotiating a deal with the island of Curacao, in the Caribbean, to accept the trash of the City of Brotherly Love.

The easiest way of easing the trash burden is to reduce the amount of trash that needs to be dealt with—in other words, to emulate our forebears who wasted little because there was little to waste.

Worldwatch Institute author Pollock says, according to a report in The Christian Science Monitor, "Recycling offers communities everywhere the opportunity to trim their waste disposal needs—and thereby reduce disposal costs."

A number of area towns already do so: Buckfield is the premier example, with Greenwood-Woodstock making great strides to recycle more and more of the trash that is brought to the joint transfer station. Greenstock's bottle recycling began a year ago and last year collected 8½ tons of glass. That meant 8½ tons of solid waste that did not have to be trucked to the landfill. Between saved trucking costs and landfill charges avoided, the towns saved about $300. In addition, they were able to sell the glass to a recycler, for another $125. In the

More than a matter of ownership

Landfills aren't the only thing filling up. The land itself—at least in relatively rural Maine—is filling up.

Consider some facts pulled together by the Maine Times in last week's special issue on development:

- There were 4.2 million acres of farmland in Maine in 1950; by 1982 this figure had shrunk to 1.5 million acres;
- The daily vehicle count at the Kittery toll plaza increased from an average of 22,933 in 1975 to 45,831 in 1985;
- Between 1976 and 1986, the number of licensed real estate brokers in Maine increased 34 percent—from 6,740 to 9,030.

It's simplistic to say that one rule of life (and history) is that things change. And, of course, change seems to take place in cycles. Those who complain that outsiders are buying up all the native land need only think back a few hundred years to when the Puritans came over to the rich forests and fields of North America. Tribal people kept the land in tribal trust—no one owning any part of it—and were unprepared for the notion of private ownership, which resulted in all the tribal lands being taken over by the outsiders.

Of course, the medieval forebears of the Puritans likewise knew nothing of private land ownership. They worked as serfs on feudal estates—where the land was not as important as the manpower to till it. Only with the onset of the Commercial Revolution and the increasing value of land for pastureland did private ownership of land become an issue.

Now, after centuries in which it has enjoyed esteem among Western societies, private ownership of land is once again becoming an issue: should the desires of the individual dictate the future of the community?

But maybe the question—as phrased by the Maine Times, among others—is the wrong question to ask. Maybe the question should be: within the framework of private ownership, what can communities do to determine the ways in which they will develop?

NTL last summer conducted a "futuring" workshop in which participants enumerated those qualities they wanted to preserve and enhance in the community and those they wanted to hold in check. With local planning boards working hard these days on ways to control growth, it would be worthwhile at this point for a district entity—such as SAD #4 Adult Ed—to convene a series of seminars where community planners could discuss ways of achieving the goals focused on in the "futuring" workshop. And, in fact, the NTL Liaison Committee and Adult Ed have apparently been thinking about doing something like this.

It is no longer a question of growth or no-growth. It is a question of what kind of growth, and where. The Bethel Planning Board, in reviewing a draft site plan ordinance, correctly focused on densities as the most critical issue. The densities permitted in multi-family developments will determine what Bethel will look like in 10 years. The question of densities will be examined with experts before the draft plan is presented to the selectmen.

While density (per acre) is surely the most critical criterion in channelling growth, there are numerous others. It would be most timely to hold a district-wide series of seminars for planners (and others interested in community development) to learn which controls are available to achieve desired results—with the existing framework of private land ownership.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor

Following the April 8 joint meeting of the Planning Board and the former Land Use Review Committee which was set up to discuss the draft Site Plan Review Ordinance, I feel compelled to express the concern and disappointment experienced by other former committee members and me. This committee had worked aggressively to have the draft of the ordinance ready for the Planning Board by mid-March (March 18) so that there would be enough time to complete its preparations for the voters' consideration at the June 9, 1987, Town Meeting.

There was no question in the minds of committee members that further work and alterations by the Planning Board would be necessary to perfect the ordinance, but this task requires much concentration and special meetings to accomplish a project of such importance. I do not have any quarrel with the Planning Board's decision to refer the draft ordinance to a professional planner and to legal counsel for advice—these are necessary steps vital to its proper preparation. However, the Board was well aware that this draft Ordinance would be presented to them in mid-March. Why then was there no strategy or method ready in advance to deal with the draft?

Planning is the preparation of a schedule to accomplish a task or purpose. At the April 8 meeting board members were still searching for names of professional planners and attorneys who might assist them in their undertaking. These professionals surely could have been selected before the board received the draft of the ordinance from the committee. Then the Planning Board could have conducted several special meetings to discuss the ordinance and immediately refer it to the professionals.

It appears that thus far our "planners" have let us down in their lack of arranging a program for the continued development of the Site Plan Review Ordinance. One can only hope that better use of the valuable and limited time remaining will prove more productive.

Patricia B. Hudson

To the Editor:

Again it seems as if the most important issues of the day are the Bryant vs. The Waltons case have been skillfully avoided by pointing a finger at my errors in how many original town histories are in circulation, which I have had the courtesy to apologize for.

But the real issue has yet to be addressed here. If there is any other future correspondent to The Citizen on this subject, I would humbly submit that the following questions be answered, in terms a layman can understand—simply and directly.

Number one: Just what are these "new sources" that should keep me or anyone else from believing that Lapham's statements about the Bryant's are not iron-clad and after a period of 200 years suddenly be doubted?

Number two: Just where are these documents or statements that present "new and shifting" evidence?

I do not have a PhD backing me up, nor am I a researcher of academia—I simply want the facts presented to me. So bring them forward at this point and time in the layman's language. From what are you hiding?

If these Lapham's histories are not "iron-clad" what good are the history books at all?

Should we now, on the basis of assumption, re-name the village in Woodstock Walton's Pond?

Where did the Waltons go? Have you any proof that their family stayed in Woodstock for close to two centuries? Present your evidence please.

These questions I have asked pertain to the real issue here, and as yet I have no theory or facts to base my opinions upon, presented by either of you.

And until the day you can prove to me and John Q. Public that the Bryant's, in fact, were not the first settlers, I stand firmly upon my convictions and those of Dr. Lapham.

Another thing, I do believe there is a danger in chipping away at the annals of history and casting doubts upon its statements. We are talking of roots here, and a precious heritage belonging to all Americans. If you destroy the roots, you are starting to destroy a precious piece of America, and the principles which made our nation great. Not only is this a deep concern of mine because I am a Bryant, it is because I am an American—and mighty proud of our traditions. And I stand firm upon the tradition.

We may not be a big group but we are working hard for the athletic teams at Telstar.

It is now time for the spring sports to begin and I hope that we get some good following for the teams that will be participating.

President Reagan declared seven counties in the state to be federal disaster areas. The seven counties were Piscataquis, Kennebec, Penobscot, Franklin, Oxford, Androscoggin and Somerset. Oxford County was one of the hardest hit, suffering damages estimated at over $12 million. (Statewide damages were estimated at $63 million.)

Oxford County's director of Civil Emergency Preparedness, Ken Whitman, said the total damage estimate for the county should rise somewhat, as local officials continue to add to their damage inventories.

Rumford had the highest preliminary damage estimate of any town in the county — $2,581,000, which included an estimated $1 million of damage at the Dixmond mill.

Rumford was runner-up in terms of damage estimates, at $2,353,000, which included $2 million of damage at the Dixmond mill.

Other towns suffering large amounts of damage were: Mexico ($1,996,500); Canton ($1,540,000); Lovell ($1,040,100, most of which was due to extensive damage to 100 summer homes on Kezar Lake).

Locally, damage estimates by town were as follows: Andover, $10,000; Bethel, $421,400 (in large part due to extensive damage to GAMM II and lesser damage at three other business establishments, but also including damage to 42 houses); Gilhead, $501,500 ($500,000 of which was damage to the CNR rail lines); Greenwood, $12,000; Hanover, $5,400; Newry, $90,450; West Paris, $50,000 ($50,000 of which was due to damage at Penley's mill and $10,000 of which was due to damage at Katie's Kitchen); Woodstock, $23,350.

CEP Director Whitman pointed out that the total amounts do not reflect damage to state roads in the area or damage to farmland. Local town officials will be meeting with federal and state officials at the county courthouse tomorrow (Thursday). Bethel Town Manager Rodney Lynch said damage estimates to the sewer pumping station on Vernon Street are increasing.

Gould biathletes compete in nationals and Scandinavian polar cup

This March, the top 25 junior men and women in the U.S. were sent to McCall, Idaho, for the U.S. Biathlon Nationals, which as a three-race try-out series for the Polar Cup in Finland. Among them was Gould's standout cross-country skier, Ben Michaud. With a 5th place in the National 15k and 6th in the 10k, Ben easily qualified for the seven-person women squad that left immediately after the Nationals for Vuokatti, Finland. A dream that had begun last summer was suddenly reality.

In Vuokatti, 90 miles from the Soviet border, Ben, his teammates, and coaches Bill Spencer, Nat Brown, and Gould coach and teacher Kirk Siegel trained and competed in competitive regional races against some of the best Finnish juniors, before moving north, above the Arctic Circle, to compete with an international field in the Polar Cup.

Although the level of skiing was much more intense than anything they had seen in the U.S., the American team had strong finishes in all of the seven races, including a number of "top-5" placings. There was a chance to travel and talk with U.S. silver medalist Josh Thompson, and to spend two hours in a question-and-answer session with Olympic medalist Tapio Piliponen.

The goal of the trip was to expose the Juniors to some of the best competitors in the world, to help them see what it takes to be a top international competitor. An immense amount was learned about skiing and shooting, and how to combine them. Ben took elaborate notes in his training log, and both Ben and Kirk carefully studied nuances of ski techniques among top international competitors.

For Ben, besides being a great learning experience, the trip ended with a 5th place finish in the Rovaniemi Polar Cup 10k. In this race and others, Ben's thorough and controlled approach to shooting, and his usual blistering skating put him in good stead among the Europeans.

While Ben has yet to ski in a World Junior Championships, he has three seasons as a junior to look forward to, and his solid performances in Finland have encouraged him to set goals for the international arena. A top-20 finisher in the Junior Olympics in cross-country, Ben continues to set high goals in both biathlon and cross-country.

Ben and Kirk returned to Gould Academy all eager to share their experiences with the Gould community as people were to hear about the two-week trip. Among the highlights were driving by huge herds of reindeer, tasting Lapland Cloudberry liqueur, experiencing 16 hours of daylight, and steaming in the traditional Finnish sauna.

The Massachusetts developer planning to build 18 townhouse condominiums on six acres on the Northwest Bethel road made a second preliminary presentation before the board. He said the units would contain about 1,200 square feet each.

Top 10 seniors named at Telstar Regional High School

Theodore Davis, principal of Telstar Regional High School, last Friday announced the top 10 seniors of the Class of 1987, describing them as follows:

Ranking first in the class is Keith W. Clanton, son of Norman and Sylvia Clanton, of Bethel. Keith is a bright student, well-motivated and modest. In addition to achieving the highest average in his class, his overall contributions to the school have been equally outstanding. A three-year member of the National Honor Society and Student Council, he is treasurer of both. He has also been a member of the varsity Cross Country and Track and Field teams, Self Group, French Club, Math League (team high scorer), R.A.D.A. (Rebels Against Drugs & Alcohol), and F.A.C.T. (Freshman Awareness Committee at Telstar). Last summer he was selected to attend Boys State, where he was elected to the office of senator. Keith has been of invaluable assistance to his peers as a tutor throughout his high school career. His disciplined, positive and energetic attitude towards his studies has earned him distinction as a National Merit semifinalist. He will attend Brown University, in Providence, R.I., in the fall, where he intends to major in Chemical Engineering.

Ranking second in the class is Kevin Bruce Powell, son of Bruce and Shirley Powell, of Hanover. Kevin is one of the top all-around students ever to attend Telstar. He is a person with many interests and channels his energy in constructive ways. He has distinguished himself as one of the strongest leaders in his class, a class officer all four of his high school years, serving as treasurer and president, a three-year member of the National Honor Society and four-year band member, president of both groups this year. He is also manager for the Basketball and Track teams, a member of the French Club, Math League and F.A.C.T. committee. He was a delegate to American Legion Boys State and is one of our most valued peer tutors. Kevin has won our admiration for his courage and our respect for his ability to carry many responsibilities. A National Merit commended student, he will be a challenge to the faculty at Georgetown University, in Washington, D.C., next September as he majors in Foreign Service.

Achieving the third highest rank in the class is Glori Anne Bolio, daughter of Ernest and Nadja Bolio, of Woodstock. Glori is one of our best "all-around" girls and was elected Telstar's candidate for this year's D.A.R. Good Citizenship Award. She is a bright, popular student, active in sports and clubs. A creative, talented individual with many interests, she's secretary of the National Honor Society (a three-year member), president of the Color Guards and layout editor of the Yearbook staff. She's also a long-standing member of the varsity Softball team, French Club, F.A.C.T. Committee, and Self Group. She's been a class officer, a delegate to Girls State, and a peer tutor. Glori is energetic and tackles projects in an organized, efficient manner. She will continue to excel as she majors in Elementary Education, at Liberty University, Lynchburg, Va., next fall. Fourth in the class is Traci Lynn Higgins, daughter of Carroll and Sharon Higgins, of Locke Mills. Traci has maintained an exceptional academic and extracurricular record since transferring to Telstar her sophomore year. Traci is a popular class leader and outstanding athlete. She is a four-year varsity member of the Basketball team—captain this year, a four-year member of the Track team and Varsity Club, copy editor of the Yearbook staff. She's a member of the National Honor Society, Self Group and the Cross Country team. She's also participated in Chorus, Newspaper staff, Soccer, C.A.D.E.T., and Latin Club. She has won Most Valuable Player awards in Track and Basketball, this year breaking the school record as the highest scorer over a four-year period in Girls' Basketball. Traci expresses herself well and is superior in group discussions. She has the ability, motivation and stability to do well at Bates College next fall, where she plans to study English/Psychology.

Maintaining the fifth-highest rank in the class is Jeannine Lynn Conant, daughter of Roger and Lillian Conant, of Bethel. Jeannine is a remarkable individual who has consistently displayed leadership, scholarship, cooperativeness, intellect and compassion throughout her high school career. She is definitely one of the students who is the backbone of our school. Her superior extracurricular involvement includes four years on the varsity Basketball and Softball teams, senior editor of the Yearbook staff, co-captain of the Field Hockey team, treasurer and secretary of her class, a member of the Student Council, French Club and Varsity Club. A four-year member of the F.A.C.T. committee, she's also been an outstanding peer tutor for the last three years. She has been accepted at St. Joseph's College, North Windham, and American International College, Springfield, Mass. An ambitious, self-sufficient and giving person, she is well-suited for a career in nursing.

David Shannon Kersey has achieved sixth-place-standing in his class. Son of Timothy and Judith Kersey, of Bethel, he is a well-rounded student with a variety of interests and involvements. He is an achiever who has been a real asset to our student population. He has contributed to the success of the Student Council Band, Drama Club, Cross Country and Track teams all four years. He's a member of the Ski Team, Math League, National Honor Society, F.A.C.T. Committee and a peer tutor. He's vice president of the Student Council, photographer for the Yearbook staff, a former member of the French Club and a Boys State delegate. Outside of school, he's actively involved in religious activities, a volunteer for the Bethel Emergency Ambulance and Rescue Service and the Ski Patrol. He has received nominations to the U.S. Naval Academy, at Annapolis, and awaits their decision.

Seventh-place-standing has been attained by Darlene Lou Haskell, daughter of Edmund and Carol Haskell, of Bryant Pond. She's an exceptional individual with good abilities, motivation and personality. She excels scholastically and in her extra-curricular interests. She's a member of Student Council, the Business Club, F.A.C.T. Committee, Self Group and SPIRIT. She is a peer tutor and editor of the Yearbook. A letter member of the Cross Country and Track teams, she also attended Girls State. Darlene will study Fashion and Retail Management at Hesser College, in Manchester, N.H.

In eighth-place-standing is Christopher Lee Dunham, son of life-long Greenwood residents Gilbert and Barbara Dunham. Chris is intelligent, capable of understanding difficult concepts, quick and thorough in his work. He is well-respected by all his teachers, who eagerly want to challenge him more in his class work. As Computer Department aide, Chris exhibits an enthusiastic, resourceful attitude, troubleshooting and researching new programs, programming, and working as a peer instructor in small groups and one-on-one situations. He has a keen interest in electronics, has his own shop at home and works for a local contractor/distributor. He will major in Electronics Technology at Eastern Maine Vocational Technical Institute, in Bangor.

Placing ninth in academic standing is Lynn Seames Cobb, daughter of Raymond and Shirley Seames, of Greenwood. Lynn has been a reliable, steady and conscientious student. A warm, outgoing and friendly young lady, she has been active in student affairs and an asset to our school's program. She has been a class officer, a letter member of the Basketball and Softball teams, a four-year member of the Band and C.A.D.E.T., a Varsity Club member, F.A.C.T. participant, instructional aide and peer tutor. Lynn hopes to pursue a career in teaching in the future.

Rounding out this outstanding group of individuals is Christopher Stephan Bresnahan, son of Joseph and Anne Bresnahan, of Locke Mills. Chris entered Telstar in his junior year, a transfer from Aigler, Pa. Christopher is a friendly young man, mature, quiet and sincere. He is liked and respected by all who have come to know him these past two years. He has participated in track and soccer and goes out of his way to lend a helping hand. A solid boy personally who does the job in the classroom, he'll be a success as he pursues further educational. Moody Bible Institute, Chicago, Ill., next year.

There's a new mood in the country fields and the woods. They're waiting for blossoming of wild dewdrops in the violet's throat; of a moth, the sunsets with the hues, stars that inspire wonder; are the winter snows and new life to everything. So let's hope for the faith. All we need is good neighborly kindness, which I have.

With high winds and plenty.

March came in snarling and cold, and then went out the same way. Show that Nature doesn't go by the calendar which I have.

April brought the flood and memories of the one in 1936. In fact the one of '36 was more severe than the one of '87. We lost more roads and three compared them in other ways.

I noted first the silence, everywhere. The haunting loneliness, isolation, and restlessness.

The dawn crept stealthily with patter of the rain drops. Vastness of the pond opened up and revealed. The shorelines along this region usually have grace of charm and variety of form and to me soft beauty. Now flooded, I watched the water rise and heard Sanborn River rushing a shade of the forest walls. I was on high land and fell sorry for my neighbors' camps were glistening.

The next day sky was heavenly blue, and a glimpse change the view. The wind died away and Nature was at her best. Easter is soon and may bring all the beauty of the spring.

The wood ducks have returned some black and white ones. I see them back.

Dot Betts had the Tuesday Club home on April 1. The first of the month and John was in Portsmou

On Friday morning I attended Delta Kappa Gamma meeting.

I went with Lettie Bresnahan Curtis, of West Paris.

Dolly Merrill, South Paris, was at her brother's, Leonas Holt.

I thought I had too many things to do when the change of time came. I refused to be turned ahead, my clock would not go ahead for me. Hand fell to six at all times, the clock, 27 years old, slowed down two alarm clocks. So I retrieved my wrist watch and it is doing well.

John and Dot Betts' son and brother were at the Betts' home.

Ralph and Regna Leepre, Brook and Ruth Collins of Brookfield, were callers at the home of Dot Betts. Local callers were Rena and Curtis and Eva Feltner.

Rena and Gloria Curtis, Lewiston and Gannum came to call.

Dot Betts and children, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis on Sunday. Other callers were Rena and Curtis, of West Paris.

With high winds and plenty of snow March came in snarling and growling and then went out the same way; just to show that Nature doesn't go by the calendar which said, "spring."

April brought the flood and to me memories of the one in 1936. In this section the one of '36 was more severe for we lost more roads and three bridges. I compared them in other ways. This time I noted first the silence, a hush everywhere. The haunting sense of loneliness, and remoteness. The dawn crept stealthily with the patter of the rain drops. Vast stretches of the pond opened up and revealed itself. The shorelines along this region, which usually have grace of charm and variety of form and to me soft beauty were now flooded. I watched the water rise and heard Sanborn River rushing along in the shade of the forest walls. I was glad I was on high land and felt sorry that my neighbors' camps were getting damaged by the waters.

The next day sky and water showed heavenly blue, and a glimpse of sun to change the view. The wind died down to stay and Nature was there at her loveliest. Easter is soon and may it bring to you all the beauty of the spring.

The wood ducks have returned and some black and white ones. It's good to see them back.

Dot Betts had the Tuesday Club at her home on April 1. The first of the week she and John were in Portsmouth.

V.I.P. tea

Volunteers currently working with children at Crescent Park and Ethel Busbee schools gathered recently at the home of Bill and Marguerite Graham for an afternoon of tea and conversation. The tea, organized by V.I.P. officers Vicki Rockliffe and Marguerite Graham, gave volunteers an opportunity to discuss the various ways they are presently working with children through V.I.P.

During the past few weeks at E.B.S., volunteers have been reading to children, listening to children read, listening to children read their original stories, helping children to edit and publish books, helping children develop critical thinking skills, working on the computer, accompanying children on field trips, working on a banking unit, helping to produce a play, helping children to make pottery Easter baskets and dinosaurs, dyeing Easter eggs to make an egg tree, and enriching reading units by helping the children both bake bread and clay dough ornaments.

The report on maple syrup isn't good this year. The weather is not cooperating as it has to be freezing nights and warm days if you are to have a good run. This is hard work setting up the equipment and storing it after the season's run and I feel sorry for those who have tried so hard to conduct this operation.

Blanch Bean has returned from the Norway hospital after this last session with infection in his knee. He is still taking antibiotics for the condition. She was pleased with the cookies left on her doorsteps. Now they would like to know the thoughtful donor.

Although our new barn at Trap Corner is not yet finished, we have christened it with two different meetings. The auxiliary met there on April 1, and the board of directors met in the new office on April 8. It was the first time many of the ladies of the auxiliary had been in the new building and they were all glad to see the fruits of their labor. Without all the hard work of fund-raising that our auxiliary has done, this building could not have been built.

Work on the barn seems to be progressing at a snail's pace right now, although it really isn't that bad. We have spent many hours painting and staining and applying poly, but we still have quite a few hours to go. As usual, we're looking for people who would like to come and help us. If you could, give Warren a call, at 674-2662.

Jessie Leighton's mom talked to Miss Newcomb's 5th grade about making butter. Students assisted the process by churning the butter and everyone enjoyed a taste of the finished product.

Third grade girls, students of Mrs. Wright, produced two wonderful, informative and unforgettable performances on "Women in History." The girls put a great deal of time and effort into researching and writing about famous women: Gloria Steinem (Alex Gillice), Nelly Bly (Leah Bonnema), Beatrice Potter (Wednesday Westleigh), Laura Ingalls Wilder (Brianna Wilson), Linda Richards (Samantha Poland), Babe Didrikson (Angela Levesque), Helen Keller (Monica Corriveau), Georgia O'Keeffe (Theresa Gibson), and Christy McAuliffe (Candy Wheeler).

Mrs. Leslie Moore helped some children in Mrs. Gould's 1st-grade make baker's clay from the recipe in the Ginn Level 3 book, "Fish and Not Fish." The group made shapes with the clay and dried them; the shapes will be painted and made into a necklace.

The baby chicks you read about a couple weeks ago have hatched! Mrs. Wright's class was able to successfully hatch seven healthy, fluffy chicks in spite of the problems created by the power shortage. Cindy Wheeler's mom was able to take care of the chicks. In order for the class to watch the chicks' growth and development, Mrs. Wright will take two chicks (chosen by students) to class about every two or three weeks.

These Telstar H.S. students spent last week (Career Week) assisting these classrooms: Lisa Cox, with Mrs. Ford; Veronica McIvile with Mrs. Cohen; Barbie Penney with Mrs. Gould; Cathy Legge Irc with Mrs. McCluskey; Melissa Pilgrim with Mrs. Corduan; Patricia Clough with Mrs. Wheeler and Andrea Howe with Ms. Ellsworth. The experience was a learning one for the students of both age levels and teachers involved.

Mrs. Corduan's 4th grade is working on sea stars. Students are making models depicting several types of starfish and are becoming familiar with sea star anatomy with the aid of a new hands-on bulletin board. If anyone has a starfish to lend to the class for examination, they'd surely appreciate it.

Students from both schools enjoyed a performance at Gould by the Bennington Puppets. Puppets Lolly Marsh and Cedric Flavier used marionettes, life-sized, and other puppets to present "The Nutcracker" and "The Mouse King." This program was funded, in part, by a grant from the Bingham Betterment Fund, the National Endowment for the Arts, and the Maine Arts Commission, through the New England Foundation for the Arts.

Mrs. Wheeler took her 5th grade science classes to Telstar where Mr. Tim Kersey, the chemistry/physics teacher,

Bethel

Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mills visited last week with Mrs. Reona Heino, Boothbay Harbor, and Charles Heino in Boothbay. They spent Tuesday night with Mrs. Heino and on Wednesday they all enjoyed a tour of the Boothbay region.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Weston have returned after spending a month touring the south. While there they visited Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Buck in Silver Springs, Fla., and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Werner in Shell Point Village, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Walker will attend the Mt. Blue String Celebration at Mt. Blue High School, Farmington, tonight. Their granddaughter, Melissa Walker, will play the cello with the group of about 100 students.

Mrs. Lottie Stevens, Bar Harbor, visited her mother, Mrs. Muriel Butters, last Wednesday night.

We understand that the foundation being dug on the knoll opposite Doc Hudson's, on Rte. 26, is for Burt Hathaway's new house.

Sunday visitors at Irene Wilson's were: Vickie, Sonya, and Barbara Wilson, Portland; Laurie Wilson, Bethel, and Sandy Wilson, Sunday River.

Doug, Jodie and David Wilson, have returned from a vacation in Florida.

They enjoyed watching the first baseball game of the season in Winter Haven.

Joe and Muriel Gilbert were in Berlin on Wednesday and Lewiston on Friday. Their nephew, Jerry Gagnon, of Lewiston, visited them one day during the week.

Karen Tandy, Litchfield, Conn., has been visiting her parents, Howard and Gen Gorham.

enlightened them with a demonstration concerning air pressure. Mr. Kersey held students' attention with his energetic presentation and "wowed" them with some unexpected surprises. The students are grateful for a great learning experience.

Phoebe Hausman-Rogers, Grade 5, received a letter from the deputy regional administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency. Phoebe received highest honors for a poster entered in this year's Elementary Education Poem and Poster Contest. The EPA official and Sen. George Mitchell will award Phoebe with a plaque at the awards ceremony on April 16 at the Ramada Inn, in Bangor. Of the thousands who entered, Phoebe was one of 90 to receive this honor. Congratulations, Phoebe.

April 17 is the last day before spring vacation and it's also the day report cards go home!

THE FARMER'S DAUGHTER is on stage at Telstar tomorrow night (Thursday) at 7 p.m. Put on by the Middle School Drama Club, it is the first production by the group in a number of years and they are looking for a good crowd to support their efforts. Some of those in the play are Bernadette Mills, Michelle Inman and Shilo Hutchins.

'Farmer's Daughter'
on stage at Telstar

By DONNA WORCESTER

On Thursday, April 16, at 7 p.m., in the Telstar auditorium, the Telstar Middle School Drama Club will present their first play in several years. The play, a short one-act melodrama entitled "The Farmer's Daughter," stars Shilo Hutchins, Linda Couture, 364-7968.

Hanover school children who attended school in Rumford had an unexpected vacation on April 1, 2, and 3 due to the flooding. Many youngsters helped clean up efforts in the area. Although a great amount of water flowed over the Howard Pond dam during the heavy rains of March 31 and April 1, the dam was apparently not badly damaged, and Hanover town roads received only minor roadside washouts and landslides. Mr. and Mrs. Emily Faucher and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Pitcher have expressed appreciation to all those who assisted their battles with the flood.

The Rumford Point Community Athletic Association (CAA) will meet April 15 at 7 p.m. at Dino's Pizza, in Rumford Center, for its annual organizational and election of officers meeting. Placed in nomination for election are Spencer Coulter, president; Bill Worcester, vice president; Tom Wheeler, treasurer; and Terry Martin, secretary. Families in the Rumford Center, Rumford Point and Hanover regions may have their children register for the summer baseball program by paying a $5 fee at sign up and registration in early May.

Cub Scout Pack 509 took second place in the Cub Scout bowling tournament that was held on three Saturdays in March. There were six packs and 125 Cub Scouts participating.

Andover East Andover

By MARJORIE JODREY

The annual Easter egg hunt will be held Saturday, April 18, beginning at 9 a.m. in front of Mills' Market. Children pre-school through grade 6, will participate with prizes awarded in different age categories.

On Saturday, April 4, the Andover Fire Department and a good crowd of volunteers held a learning experience on the old Damford homestead on the hill in East Andover. Another historical building goes to be replaced by a modern home. A good crowd of spectators also was there.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Swain were in Underhill, Vt., to visit their son, Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Swain and family. They returned to Andover over East B Hill because of flooded roads.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester White of East Andover, and their son, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel White and daughters, Corie and Jennie, of Fayette, started for Fayetteville, N.C., this week. On their way they visited Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Hall and boys in Bethel, Conn. They also planned to stop in Delaware to visit Mr. and Mrs. Ray Henderson, an uncle of Mrs. Daniel White.

Daniel White of Fayette, during the flood, had a narrow escape while at work at the International Paper Co. mill. A part of the dam where he works washed away, crumpled, throwing him, and others, into the river. They managed to crawl onto a bank. The water was so swift they couldn't be rescued by boat so ropes were thrown to them and then they were hauled to safety.

Andover Wood Products, Akers' Store, Dave's Store, Mills' Market, and Akers' Ski are some of the businesses in town letting some of the Telstar junior and senior students in their places during Career Week at Telstar Regional High School. Many others have taken opportunities in Bethel, Rumford and Norway.

Deacons Eldora Jones, Belinda Poor, Gerald Michaud and Kathy Williamson conducted the service at Andover First Congregational Church on April 3, the fifth Sunday of Lent. The organist was Linda Dyer and the choir director Ann Bishop. Greeters were Mary Learned and family. Adult choir at 11:15. Youth Group met at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, Ladies Aid met at the home of Betsy White at 12 noon with a potluck luncheon. Thursday, adult choir rehearsal and Friday at 3 p.m., children's choir. Communion was held on Palm Sunday, April 12.

Robert B. Swain under surgery on Wednesday at the Maine Medical Center, Portland.

On April 16, third annual "hot dog" at the Andover Elementary School; April 17, report cards go home and spring break begins.

A large crowd attended the "open house" at the Andover Public Library on Thursday, April 9. Judges of the essay contest were Marie Lang, Florence Hall, and Helen Deanis, teacher of the 5th grade at the Mersey School in Mexico. Winners were: (1) "Pink Pet," by Craig Dubois, grade 6; (2) "The Best Pet in the World," by Kelly Cronin, grade 5; (3) "Scratchy Claws," by Peter Misurocchi, grade 4. Lower grades: (1) "Rusty," by Erin Dubois, grade 3; (2) "About My Dog," by Fred Emerson, grade 2; (3) "My Pet Mittens and Tuffy," by Jamie Blouin, Grade 2. Honorable mention:

CLEARING FOR THE NEW 18-HOLE GOLF COURSE At the Bethel Inn & Country Club has been completed. Development Manager John Laban, left, reviews plans for fairway contouring with the Inn's general manager, Ray Moran, center, and owner Dick Rasor. The current nine-hole course will remain in full use this summer, with play on the scenic 6,700-yard championship layout scheduled for July 1988. The original regulation par and length course has offered hundreds of thousands of guests challenging rounds since early in the century.

Newry town office

Veronica Smith and Mike Lynch of the Newry Planning Board attended a public hearing of the Board of Environmental Protection in Augusta on April 8, on the proposed plans of the Sunday River Ski Area to construct a sewerage treatment plant at the skiway. Ms. Smith reported a very informative meeting. The plans were approved by the State and now go to the Newry Planning Board for final approval. A public hearing will be held on the at the town office on Friday, April 17, at 7 p.m.

The Planning Board will meet at the town office on Wednesday, April 15, at 7 p.m. to work on the municipal services area of the comprehensive plan. Interested Newry citizens are invited to attend these meetings to express their views.

The April 15 meeting will be devoted entirely to the comprehensive plan and no other business is to be considered at this meeting. The planning board is inviting Newry citizens who have input for those meetings, and who will be unable to attend, to submit them in writing prior to the meeting dates.

Written input may be given to a planning board member, or left at the town office before April 15.

Office hours are: selectmen, Tuesday, 9 a.m. to 12 noon; and for the town clerk, treasurer and tax collector, Thursday, 12 noon to 8 p.m., and Thursday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Bethel Emergency Ambulance and Rescue Service

The EMT class is finished. The following people passed their state written and practical test and can now become licensed EMT's: Harry Arched, Doreen Benson, Amy Cole, Arthur Cole Jr., Ken Dixon, Jerry Hefley, Joyce Howe, Marie Corbin-Keane, Ed Krieter, Wilbur (Bill) Myers, Richard Roy, Kathy Scherf, Robert Donald Scott, Dennis Swan, and Arthur Whitten.

The advanced First Aid Class is going good.

If you see a lot of activity at the ambulance garage next week a group of Boy Scouts with Brian Hughes are going to be making the BEARS some new equipment.

Safety Tip

Now that the water has receded and things are drying out be very careful where you walk. Some places may still be muddy and there are some places where the bank may have washed out leaving a place hanging out. Be sure where you are stepping.

Thought for the Day: Making Friends

Abraham Lincoln was once being criticized for his attitude toward his enemies; "Why do you try to make friends of them?" a colleague asked. "You should try to destroy them." "Am I not destroying my enemies," the president asked gently, "when I make them my friends?"

Let Your Light Shine

Text: "For once you were in the dark but now you are light in the Land of children of light." Ephesians

The reference to light is coming in the Bible. In the beginning God created light. Light is important. We started "daylight savings time" when we can take advantage of more light at the end of the day.

What about the church? Is the connection between light and the church? I believe that there is. An American tourist had been traveling throughout Europe. His journey took her to Germany, a little Saxony town she decided a few days. She found a quiet room, and looked for a time of rest and relaxation. She heard church bells ringing. She thought that this might be the church. She was told that it was the ancient church. She too, made her way to the church. She asked her what she was carrying. She thought that until she got there. She thought that until she got there. She made this observation. "On Sundays it is not very convenient these days to light the church candle, and everyone who attends the church is a little brighter." A Sunday evening you are to stay away, you must live by knowledge that their will be more light in church for others.

As we come to the close of the season and celebrate the Resurrection of Christ, may we remember that us is an important source of light to the church to which we belong. May our attendance be taken seriously in the months ahead to be more light for others.

THOUGHTS FROM THE Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, is endeavoring to bring focus to our interdenominational. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words, comfort and help for your daily life.

Let Your Light Shine

Text: "For once you were in darkness, but now you are light in the Lord; walk as children of light." Ephesians 5:8.

The reference to light is commonplace in the Bible. In the beginning there was light (see Genesis). Jesus and Paul refer to light several times in the New Testament. Light is important. We have just started "daylight savings time"; a time when we can take advantage of a little more light at the end of the day.

What about the church? Is there a connection between light and the disciplines? I believe that there is. An illustration might help clarify what I mean.

An American tourist had been traveling throughout Europe. Finally, her journey took her to Germany. There in a little Saxony town she decided to spend a few days. She found a quaint little inn, took a room, and looked forward to a time of rest and relaxation. She was looking through the tour guide book when she heard church bells ringing. She learned that in this little town was a 12th century church. She peered out of the window and saw several people walking toward the hill at the head of the street. They were carrying something which looked like a lamp on their hands. She decided to join in the throng. She, too, made her way to the ancient church. She saw an elderly woman about to enter the narthex. She asked her what she was carrying in her hand. She was told that it was a lamp. She thought that strange until she learned more. It seems that the Duke of that area left money on his will to provide each villager with a lamp that was to be brought to the church on Sunday and mid-week service. At the church the worshipper would light the lamp from a candle placed in the narthex and then proceed to his seat, placing the lamp in a special holder there. The elderly woman made this observation. "Of course, nowadays it is not very convenient to use these lamps to light the church, but we still do, and everyone who attends makes the sanctuary a little brighter. And if on a Sunday evening you are tempted to stay away, you must live with the knowledge that their will be that much less light in church for others."

As we come to the close of this Lenten season and celebrate the Resurrection of Christ, may we remember that each of us is an important source of light to the church to which we belong or attend. May our attendance be taken more seriously in the months ahead that there be more light for others.

West Paris

By MIRIAM INMAN

The West Paris Firemen's Auxiliary met on Monday evening and made plans for the Easter Egg hunt, which will be delayed this year due to the wet grounds and the Shrine Circus, which many of the children will be attending on the 18th. It will be held on Saturday, April 25, at 11 a.m. and will be for West Paris children, preschool through 6th grade. There will be three age groups—preschool and kindergarten, 1st through 3rd, and 4th through 6th. The flea market to be held on May 30 was discussed. Tables will be available to rent for $5, or $3 for a space if one brings own table. For further information or to reserve, call 674-2870.

The West Paris Historical Society will meet Monday, April 20, at 6 p.m. and go to the former Odd Fellows Lodge Hall, which will be the new home of the historical society. After the short tour, there will be a potluck supper and meeting at the present society building.

Mrs. Virginia Aridas, Medford, N.Y., was the weekend guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Inman.

Mrs. Cheryl Sholl, Kirby and Caroline, of Heightstown, N.J., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Doughty for a week.

Mrs. Valerie Costello has been a patient at Stephens Memorial Hospital, and is now at Ledgeview Memorial Home.

North Paris

By EVELINE B. VATCHER

On April 6, 1946, Eveline moved to North Paris from West Paris and the weather was a bit different than this year on April 6. The wind blew a gale and the dust blew all over and cold.

The Community Club met at the Vatcher's April 8 for the first meeting of the season. The secretary was absent due to the chicken pox. The treasurer's report was read and accepted. Plans were made for a public baked bean supper, April 23, 6 p.m. A benefit public supper for Mr. and Mrs. Ted Brett who lost their trailer home by a fire was discussed to be held when it gets warmer. More details later. A get-well card was signed to be sent to Corey Bonney, who is at the Veterans Hospital in Togus.

Callers at Lawrence's: Arnold Coffin, Stevie Millett, Mr. and Mrs. Odell Heath, Richard Felt, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Heath Jr., Amanda and Jeremy.

Joe Vatcher worked at the West Paris

landfill on Wednesday, just pinch-hitting. He talked to a lot of people.

Mrs. Robert Isleby has been sick all week; had attack of asthma.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vatcher spent April 10 with his mother. It was her 86th birthday. Couldn't take her a cake but did sneak her in an apple turnover. It is what she asked for and Eveline used a bit of regular sugar. One needs a change every year. A son, Everett, and his wife, Lynchburg, Va., are expected to come also.

The next meeting will be held at the Legion Hall in May with a potluck dinner. The guest speaker will be Joe Perham.

WALKING WITH JESUS CHRIST

Our previous column dealt with "Preaching with power from on high"—for the salvation of souls and the building up of the Saints—i.e., Christians.

Now again we have preaching in "haloed" words, breaking God's plan of salvation—professing a real godliness, proclaiming the truth of holiness—planning instead of God. Glorifying Him not as God—but became vain in their狂妄，their foolish hearts hardened—professing themselves to be wise, they became fools and exchanged the truth of God for a lie." Romans 1:21-25. "And, no marvel, for Satan himself is transformed into an angel of light." 2 Cor. 11:14.

Numerous folk are brought into a church without a vital spiritual experience—substituting good works—community effort, social reform for personal salvation—often getting enough "religion" to make them feel secure—immune to the real thing.

The preacher is responsible to God—to present the pure Gospel—the fragrance of Christ—2 Cor. 2:15—that lives are transformed. It is well known that the preaching of the Cross is offensive to those that perish—that's why Christ died on the Cross.

All eternity is at issue—dependence upon preaching the pure gospel—presenting salvation—sanctification and wisdom—as proper stewards of the mystery of God—with a passion to give forth the simple message of Good News.

There is no intellect needed—but trusting on the wisdom of God—believing in the death and resurrection of Jesus Christ—experiencing the joy of rightly dividing the word of sanctification and redemption.

Jeremiah 22:29—"Oh earth, earth, earth, hear the Word of the Lord"—vs. 23:29—"Is not my Word like a fire?" said the Lord "and like a hammer that breaketh the rock into pieces?" Consider the song—"Take the world, but give me Jesus"—Nothing but Jesus would I know.

Oh preacher—present the Word with the power of God—let not the philosophy of the world cloud the eye with its twisted and confused presentation which compromises the Gospel! Remember, you must be "Born Again"—John 3:3—and as Jesus said in John 14:15-16—"And I pray the Father He will give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you forever"—vs. 26—"But the comforter—who is the Holy Spirit, whom the Father will send in my name, he shall teach you all things, and bring to your remembrance whatever I have said to you."
